CERT team members are everyday people who are trained in basic emergency preparedness and response

Learn How to Respond In an Emergency

CERT education and training prepares you for natural disasters and everyday emergencies at home and work.

The Shenandoah Homeowner's Association invites you to two important events that will inform the residents of our community about CERT, the Community Emergency Response Team. This program educates people about disaster preparedness and trains them in basic disaster response skills such as fire safety, light search and rescue, team organization, and disaster medical operations. When you are trained in these skills as a CERT member, you will be able to assist others in your family, neighborhood and workplace when professional responders are not immediately available during an emergency. So be sure to attend these two informative events:
